ABSTRACT

An improved technique for provisioning working paths and protection paths is disclosed in which the "inferiority" of various links from each node to a "next hop" is examined. Choices are eliminated at each step before plural choices are evaluated at the next step, until the best

5   working paths and protection paths through the network are established.